Member, Board of Directors
Canadian Orthopaedic Foundation

After spending seven seasons in the Canadian Football League as a member of the Toronto Argonauts (1970-73, 1977) and B.C. Lions (1974-75), Tony began a thirty-year career, including seven years as the President and C.E.O., at one of Canada's leading development companies, Tridel. In 2007, Tony co-founded The Moro Group Builders Inc., "TMG Builders", and for the past 13 years, Tony has guided TMG Builders as it has established itself as the market leader for construction management services for high-rise residential and mixed-use developments in the Greater Toronto area.

Overall, Tony has more than 45 years' experience developing and building many of Toronto's finest condominium projects and has been involved in building over 60,000 condominium homes. Tony was also instrumental in the development of the flying-form system for concrete forming. This system not only revolutionized the construction of high-rise concrete buildings but also reduced costs and significantly improved production output.
